The C&O Canal Trust is an independent, nonprofit organization founded to protect, restore, and promote the C&O Canal National Historical Park. The Trust pursues its mission through a combination of fundraising, volunteerism, community outreach and education, and hands-on restoration. By working in partnership with the National Park Service, the Trust seeks to ensure that the park's natural, historic, and recreational potential is fully realized.

Building a Legacy of Volunteerism

The C&O Canal Trust is an independent, nonprofit organization, which brings the resources of the community—its energy, expertise and economic capacity—to the task of protecting, restoring and promoting the C&O Canal National Historical Park. We recognize that everyone plays an important role in stewarding the Park's natural, historic and recreational qualities. And during the C&O Canal Pride Days, we're working in tandem with the National Park Service to engage volunteers to do just that.

With more than 700 volunteers, the first C&O Canal Pride Days in 2008 was a huge success. In fact, it was the largest volunteer effort in the C&O Canal National Historical Park since the clean-up effort following the floods of 1996. Canal Pride Days 2009 raised the bar even higher, with nearly 800 volunteers participating in over 70 projects. With your help, C&O Canal Pride Days will continue to grow year after year.

C&O Canal Pride Days 2010 Project List

- Planting trees along the towpath
- Painting historic structures
- Installing grills and tables at campgrounds
- Repairing and painting fences
- Removing trash and debris
- Sprucing up Visitor Centers
- Pruning vegetation and pulling invasives

Join us for our third annual revitalization project. Whether you commit to one afternoon or a few days, you're bound to be part of a legacy for the ages.

*Projects vary by location and are subject to change.

Please show your pride for your Park today by volunteering for this year's C&O Canal Pride Days! Completed forms may be mailed to the address listed at the top of this page. With your help, this can mark the beginning of a lasting relationship between you, the C&O Canal National Historical Park, and our future.
